

1:14

◀ Facebook

[REDACTED] Active 39m ago

You're friends on Facebook

View profile

🔒 End-to-end encrypted

Messages and calls are secured with end-to-end encryption.

Learn more

JUL 1 AT 2:04 PM

Hey, Cade! I know this is totally random, but I was hoping you could help me with something. I received these messages from [REDACTED] over the last few days. I'm open to chatting with him to gain insight (because I still have questions) and also help where I can, but I want to be sure he is legit. I can't really tell and am a bit skeptical. Could you confirm he is part of Team Cade and it's ok to talk with him or if I should avoid this guy?

I'm happy to forward this to your

Aa

1:14

◀ Facebook

[REDACTED] Active 39m ago

it's ok to talk with him or if I should avoid this guy?

I'm happy to forward this to your legal team if you'd prefer I reach out to them.

Gotcha. I would like to follow along, but I don't know where to look.

I'm not sure if you could tell by my face, but I was also shocked by the verdict.

Hence the reason I am reaching out to you lol. I actually paid attention to you a bit since you were close enough for me to see

I promise, I just kinda want to walk through the things that didn't sit well with you, things that u really thought worked, ect so that i can allow Cade to have a fair chance at a second shot. Allowing his team to capital, I kr me was righ, called (only three,

Since then I have become very good friends with Cade. I speak to him multiple times a day, almost as a mentor.

I just would walk through the process with you and see where his team can do better for the next time. 280 yrs for yes shady (but not illegal), is just way to harsh.

He was a kid being molded by the people around him, a position I know well. This situation has made him grow up and see what he was doing was wrong

